

Clouds Again

As dusk settles across the horizon clouds go orange to pink shaped like a ribcage the heart beating somewhere amidst the deep pink pulsing sky.
Bluebirds circle the vineyard alight a highway post and settle down for the night.
I keep watching during last fading light